

Project to develop an efficient pig production and management system

From the cooperation of Akkhraratchakumari Veterinary College, School of Agricultural Technology and Food Industry, School of Allied Medicine, The Academic Service Center of the and Department of Livestock Development has recognized that pig farming has been a long-standing profession because it is a basic commodity for general consumption. The epidemic has occurred in many parts of the world and in Thailand. This caused a lot of damage to pig farmers. The farming pattern that is often found in small farmers is to raise breeders and fattening pigs. From the demonstration community area behind Walailak University. Issues that can be promoted and assisted by farmers in terms of disease prevention and control education are found. Helping in the health care of pigs Advice on farm management to increase productivity. IN LINE WITH THE MAIN SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS (SDGS), GOAL 2 (ZERO HUNGER) ERADICATE HUNGER. Achieve better food security and nutrition and promote sustainable agriculture. Goal 1 "No Poverty" eradicates poverty in all forms and places, and Goal 17 (Partnerships for the Goals) builds cooperation with relevant networks and agencies.

1. Walailak University held a meeting to drive the operation of the Integrated Pig Farming Community Enterprise Group. Walai Lak Pattana Demonstration Community

On January 5, 2023, at 13.00 – 16.30 hrs., the team of the Integrated Pig Farming Promotion Project led by Professor Dr. Krittika Kabploy. School of Agricultural Technology and Food Industry, Assistant Professor Ratchadaporn Boripun (D.V.M., M.Sc.) Professor along with A team from the Academic Service Center attended a meeting of community enterprise groups to discuss, exchange and brainstorm ideas on driving joint activities in 2024.

2. Walailak University organized a workshop on pig health care and testing services for pathogenic contamination in pigs and the environment in pig farms. to the Integrated Pig Farmers Community Enterprise Group. Walai Lak Pattana Demonstration Community

On May 7, 2024, a workshop on pig health care and testing services for pathogen contamination in pigs and the environment in pig farms was held. to the Integrated Pig Farmers Community Enterprise Group. Akkhraratchakumari Veterinary College will provide free analysis services to farmers participating in the project and consultation services on the management and health of fattening pigs for farmers. To support academic knowledge in raising pigs in the community to achieve sustainability in livelihoods.

3. Akkhraratchakumari Veterinary College Organizing Academic Service Activities to Integrate Teaching and Learning in Pig Health Care Management Practice to the Integrated Pig Farmers Community Enterprise Group. Walai Lak Pattana Demonstration Community

Organizing Academic Service Activities Integrated with Teaching and Learning VET61-574 Clinical Production Medicine and Swine Health In the practice of managing pig health care. to the Integrated Pig Farmers Community Enterprise Group. The program focuses on allowing students to learn through practical experience with lecturers and the community, as well as supporting and transferring academic knowledge in raising pigs in the community to achieve sustainability in their livelihoods.

References

<https://cas.wu.ac.th/archives/24594>

<https://cas.wu.ac.th/en/archives/24106>

<https://cas.wu.ac.th/archives/24049>

<https://cas.wu.ac.th/archives/26796>

<https://cas.wu.ac.th/archives/27937>

(1) วิดีโอ | Facebook